

STAFF VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Internal Aerospace Education Officer

Application Deadline: 15 March 2018

The Rocky Mountain Region is seeking a dynamic, motivated individual to serve as Internal Aerospace Education Officer.

The Internal Aerospace Education Program provides basic aerospace knowledge to both senior members and cadet members.

This position reports to and supports the Deputy Chief of Staff for Aerospace Education, under whose direction this individual plans and executes the Internal Education program by:

- supporting and assisting the Aerospace Education Officers (AEOs) at the Wing level in the implementation of aerospace education program and policy,
- assisting the Deputy Chief of Staff for Cadet Programs in supporting the cadet aerospace education program at the Wing levels,
- promoting and encouraging participation in the Aerospace Education Excellence Program, and
- encouraging members of Region staff to earn their Yeager Award as well as enrolling and progressing in the Aerospace Education Specialty Track.

Successful completion of these duties requires an educator's heart and enthusiasm for sharing information about aerospace education, coupled with the disciplined skills of an administrator. Excellent interpersonal relationship and communication skills are a must.

Minimum requirements are the successful completion of Level II of the senior member Professional Development program, enrollment in the Aerospace Education Specialty Track, and achievement of the Charles W. "Chuck" Yeager Aerospace Achievement Award.

Candidates who have achieved the Senior rating in Aerospace Education and/or who have completed Level III or Level IV or the Professional Development program are preferred. Successful applications who have not previously completed the Technician rating in Professional Development must do so within one year of appointment to this position.

Current or former educators and those with a post-secondary degree in any aerospace, education, research, training and development or related discipline are preferred.
